HUELVA CAPITAL

Huelva is a port city in the south-west of Spain, where the rivers Odiel and Tinto flow. The history of the province of Huelva is fascinating. It captures the interest of even the most experienced traveller. From the origins of the perhaps the first civilisation of the Peninsula to the port that gave departure to discover a new continent.

Strolling through the streets of Huelva is synonymous of history: catalogued as an Asset of Cultural Interest in 1977, the Barrio Reina Victoria, familiarly known as “Barrio Obrero”, one of the most emblematics of the city.

Huelva saw the birth of the first football team in the Spanish scene, immigrant workers, especially British, towards the end of the 19th century. They were the ones who played the first matches around 1870. Huelva is sierra, is sun and beach, is culture, is cinema, is sport and is gastronomy.

HUELVA

PALOS DE LA FRONTERA

Palos de la Frontera is a municipality in the province of Huelva. On the 3rd of August 1492 Christopher Columbus and his small fleet left the port of Palos de la Frontera on their way to adventure, leaving this place in the province of Huelva a glorious place in the pages of history. With the Genoese admiral two sons from Palos, Martín and Vicente Alonso, the Pinzón brothers. Palos de la Frontera and Columbus are synonymous of the conquest of a new continent.

If any place is worth to be visited in Palos de la Frontera is the Caravel Museum which also has replicas of the three ships: La Pinta, La Niña and La Santa María.

Gastronomy is a strong point we can find pescaíto frito (fried fish), Iberian ham and the famous prawns of Huelva. In the spring season, you can try one of the most traditional recipes, such as enzapatás beans, homemade dessert hornazo, or the famous strawberries from Palos.

HUELVA

MOGUER

Moguer is one of the most beautiful Andalusian towns and it counts with quality tourist resources, this makes it a preferential destination for visitors.

Moguer keeps alive its roots, its culture and its traditions. A beautiful place between the river, the sea and the Green ocean of Doñana.

Birthplace of the poet and Nobel Prize winner Juan Ramón Jiménez, whose birthplace has been restored as a museum.

The gastronomy of Moguereña can offer the to the visitor, exquisite dishes such as cod with tomato, gazpacho and fresh fish from the coast or the exquisite prawns and coquinas (clams). The Condado wines are the perfect complement to these delicacies. Oranges, peaches and peach and, above all, our strawberries.

HUELVA

ALJARAQUE

The Greeks named Aljaraque Kalatathousa. Later the word etymology in the Arabic term Al Xarat, which means hill. As time went by, the toponym was modified to become Aljafar in the 13th century, until it took on the current form of Aljaraque.

It is located 7 kilometres from the city of Huelva, in the Marismas del Odiel Natural Park in the so-called Tierra Llana, bordering the municipalities of Huelva, Gibraleón, Cartaya and Punta Umbría.

In recent years there has been a considerable increase in building on the grounds, in a new area called Nuevo Corrales, and some of the buildings imitate the English colonial style. Aljaraque has undergone a great development thanks to its strategic location and its spectacular natural environment. This fact has led a considerable number of people to choose Aljaraque as a place to live, attracted by the quality of life offered by the municipal area. You can visit monuments such as: Parroquia de Nuestra Señora de Los Remedios, Ermita Nuestra Señora de los Remedios, Parroquia de Nuestra Sra. Reina del Mundo (Corrales).

CARTAYA

Cartaya is a Spanish town and municipality in the province of Huelva (Andalusia). In 2020 it had 20,083 inhabitants. Its surface area is 226.4 km<sup>2</sup> and has a population density of 84.12 inhabitants/km<sup>2</sup>.

Cartaya was founded as an urban centre by the Marquis of Gibraleón, Pedro de Zúñiga, in the estuary of the river Piedras. Its name comes from the Phoenician word "carteia", which means "city", so presumably its settlement, although not continuous, is older.

The existence of settlements in neighbouring farmsteads in the early Middle Ages is also documented, proving that the area has been inhabited since ancient times. It is worth mentioning its 4km of beach (El Rompido, Playa de San Miguel, Playa de Nuevo Portil, and the western part of El Portil, an atypical urban image due to the segregation of Punta Umbria), as well as the old Convento de la Santísima Trinidad, the Parish Church, the hermitage of Santa Maria de Consolación and the Castle of Los Zúñiga.

COSTA

LEPE

Lepe has an important cultural heritage that reflects its long history and tradition.

More than 15 km of sandy beaches can cater for all tastes: from wild beaches full of natural vegetation between dunes, to urban beaches with all the services and recognised with the "Q for Tourist Quality" and "Ecoplayas". With more than 3,000 hours of sunshine a year and a pleasant climate, Lepe is a very nice place to enjoy a holiday in the south of Andalusia.

The Parish Church of Santo Domingo de Guzmán, built on the site of a 14th century Mudejar building, was founded in the 16th century by Doña Teresa de Guzmán, Duchess of Béjar.

From a cliff it has a marvellous view of the Paraje Natural Marismas del Rio Piedras and Flecha del Rompido.

AYAMONTE

Situated next to the Gadiana River, Ayamonte is one of the most important cities in the province. It has 21,000 inhabitants and is a destination with many attractions to enjoy in the Andalusian Atlantic, in that strip of land where Spain almost merges with Portugal.

Isla Canela belongs to this municipality in Huelva, which is famous for the beaches.

the best way to get to know the essence of this beautiful white-coloured area is a stroll through the old town of Ayamonte, with its old indiano houses, where you can feel the breeze of the Atlantic and the roar of the Gadiana.

The gastronomy of Ayamonte is based on fish. The king of these tables is undoubtedly the tuna and its rice dishes. You can try the best mojama (tuna fish) in the the country and all the tuna derivatives due to their salting and preservation point, with companies of renowned known business merit.

CONDADO

LA PALMA DEL CONDADO

La Palma del Condado is a municipality in the province of Huelva, located in an extensive depression valley, barely accentuated by gentle hills.

Among all the municipal heritage, there are three places of renown such as the Parish Church of San Juan Bautista (18th century). Its Church-Castillo del Valle (the place where the Patron Saint of the people of Palmas, the Virgen del Valle) and its reconstructed neo-Mudejar chapel of San Sebastián. It is a town with a long wine-making tradition.

There is a great deal of documentation on the cultivation of wine in La Palma del Condado. For many centuries throughout the Condado de Huelva region, exquisite wines have been made. Many of these wines began to be taken to the New World after the Discovery of America.

The typical dish of La Palma del Condado is broad beans with pennyroyal. This dish consists of a bean stew with the addition of pennyroyal, fresh garlic and salt. In local bars and restaurants they are served as tapas and raciones during the bean season.
